MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: William M. Baker
Director, Public Affairs Office

SUBJECT: Trip to Jackson, Mississippi and Mississippi
State University, Starkville, Mississippi

1. This is background information for your trip Wednesday, 20 April, to address the Executive Forum Luncheon sponsored by the Center for International Security and Strategic Studies (CISS) at the Radisson Walthall Hotel Jackson, Mississippi. Phone: (601) 948-6161. After the luncheon you are scheduled to travel to the Mississippi State University campus in Starkville to speak with students and faculty in the afternoon followed by dinner with Professor Theodore Remley. Contact phone at the University: (601) 325-2028. will accompany you on the trip.

2. Arrival: You are scheduled to arrive at 11:00 a.m. at Jackson Municipal Airport (Miller Wills Terminal) where you will be met by the Director of CISS, Dr. Janos Radvanyi and Project Coordinator of CISS, Colonel Charles Bond, USAF (ret.) (see tab for biographies and separate folder for further information on Dr. Radvanyi.) Both Dr. Radvanyi and Colonel Bond will drive with you to the Radisson Walthall Hotel, 225 East Capitol Street, Jackson, Mississippi. A courtesy room will be available.

3. Address of the Executive Lecture Forum, 12:00 noon - 1:15 p.m.: You are asked to be at the Van Dorn room at 11:55 a.m. in the Radisson Walthall Hotel where you will meet with the members of the Executive Lecture Forum. Lunch will be served at 12:00 noon and your speech on "Traditional Functions of National Intelligence" is scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. Chairman of the Board of Deposit Guaranty National Bank E. B. "Bud" Robinson will introduce you. The suggested format is 20 minutes of remarks followed by 15 minutes of questions and answers. Since the program is informal, Mr. Robinson will not moderate. You will be seated at the head table with the following:

Mr. E. B. Robinson (on your left)

Chairman of the Board,
Deposit Guaranty National Bank

Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye (on your right)
Dr. Donald W. Zacharias

State of Mississippi
President, Mississippi State
University

Mr. Mike Moore

Attorney General, State of Mississippi
President, Board of Trustees
Commissioner for Higher Education for Mississippi

Ms. Betty A. Williams
Dr. W. Ray Cleere

Tim Ford
Kelly Wines

Speaker of the House, State of Miss
CEO, First Miss Corp

Adjournment is at 1:15 p.m. A podium and microphone will be available near your table. DCI Security will tape your remarks for the Agency's historical records.

Approximately 35 - 40 prominent area businessmen, state government officials, and members of academia will be in the audience. The media will not cover the event nor will foreign nationals attend. (See tab for list of attendees.)

The purpose of the Forum is to provide Mississippi's leading citizens with a forum for an exchange of views with high government officials on critical global security issues. Previous speakers have been General James A. Abrahamson, Air Commodore Sir Frank Whittle, General Pierre M. Gallois, French Ambassador Emmanuel de Margerie, and Belgian Ambassador Herman Dehennin. The most recent speaker was Director of NSA William Odom who spoke on "Prospects for Success for Gorbachev's Economic and Social Reforms." In addition to the Forum, CISS also sponsors Research Conferences. Last month a conference was held on "The China-Japan-United States Triangle: A Forecast for the 1990's and Beyond." (See brochures in front pocket and also see background tab.)

At approximately 1:45 p.m. you will depart Jackson Municipal Airport (Miller Wills Terminal) for a 30-minute flight to the Golden Triangle Regional Airport arriving at 2:15 p.m. and then drive to the Mississippi State University campus in Starkville. Dr. Radvanyi and Colonel Bond will accompany you.

4. Lecture, Mississippi State University: You are asked to be at Simrall Engineering Building room #220 at 2:40 p.m. to meet with Chairman of the Electrical Engineering Department Dr. Billie J. Ball and Vice President for Research Dr. Ralph E. Powe. (See tab for biographies.) Dr. Ball, Dr. Powe, and Dr. Radvanyi will escort you to the Simrall Auditorium and remain with you on stage. Your lecture will begin at 3:00 p.m. and the suggested format is 25 minutes of remarks and 15 minutes of questions and answers. Dr. Powe will introduce you and will moderate the question and answer period. Adjournment is at 4:00 p.m. A podium and microphone will be available. DCI security will tape your remarks for the Agency's historical records.

You can expect an audience of 100 - 150 undergraduate students, faculty members, and members of the community. Since foreign nationals attend the school and also are members of the faculty, you can expect several in the audience. Both the electronic and print media will cover the event. This will include the CBS and NBC affiliates and the Columbia COMMERCIAL DISPATCH, the Starkville DAILY NEWS, and the campus newspaper REFLECTOR. The press will participate in the question and answer period.

Mississippi State University, founded in 1878, is a state-controlled institution and land grant college with nine undergraduate schools and colleges. (See tab for background information.)

OFFICIAL USE ONLY

Following the lecture a reception (4:00 - 4:45 p.m.), will be held in the lobby of the Simrall Auditorium. You are scheduled for cocktails at Professor Theodore Remley's home and dinner at a restaurant. Departure time from Starkville will be approximately 8:00 p.m.

Spasowski, Poland's most senior diplomat, was serving his second tour of duty in Washington; he had served in Washington as ambassador from 1955 to 1961. He was also the highest ranking Communist-bloc diplomat to defect to the U.S. since Arkady Shevchenko, a top-ranking Soviet official, defected in 1978. The last major Eastern European defection was in 1967, when Janos Radvanyi resigned as the Hungarian charge d'affaires and sought asylum. [See 1978, p. 302A2; 1967, p. 273F2]

The officially controlled Warsaw radio denounced Spasowski's defection and said that the government had recommended that the country's chief military prosecutor begin criminal proceedings. The statement also said that the ambassador was told in February that he would be recalled from his post and that his "increasingly frequent incompetence" had been aggravated by "psychological depression connected with his personal affairs."

Mr. Spasowski was the highest-ranking Communist-bloc diplomat to defect in the United States since Arkady N. Shevchenko, the top-ranking Soviet official in the United Nations secretariat, sought asylum in April 1978. Mr. Shevchenko is now reported to be living in seclusion in the Washington area.

The last major defection of a Communist-bloc envoy in Washington occurred in May 1967 when Janos Radvanyi, the Hungarian charge d'affaires, was granted asylum. Mr. Radvanyi later said that he had defected because the Hungarian Government had given the United States false assurances about Hanoi's position on proposed peace talks on Vietnam.

In Czechoslovakia, the liberalization of the "Prague Spring" came more gradually, but it was just as dangerous -- the Czechoslovak Communist Party itself was leading the country down the heretical path of reform.

Poland's transformation has been peaceful, in contrast with the Hungarian uprising. And the Polish party, unlike the Czechoslovak, has put up determined resistance to much of what Solidarity demands.

The party's status is crucial in comparing the Polish situation with the earlier episodes, says Janos Radvanyi, a former Hungarian diplomat who witnessed the revolution and Soviet intervention in Budapest.

"The Communist Party of Poland still has a power base, but in Hungary in 1956 the party completely disintegrated in a matter of a few days," Radvanyi explained in an interview. "If the Russians didn't invade, Hungary would have been lost to them, at least as a close ally."

Commissar's Conundrum

With Soviet troops in Afghanistan, Janos Radvanyi, a former Hungarian ambassador, offers a different side of Russia, this one a delightful reminiscence of boar hunting with the late Nikita Khrushchev.

In the February Atlantic, the author recalls a tale told by Khrushchev as an example of stalinist diplomacy:

"It all happened in October, 1943, when the British Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, and the United States Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, traveled to Moscow to hold talks with Molotov," Khrushchev is recalled as saying speaking of Soviet foreign ...

BIOGRAPHY

CHARLES W. BOND

Charles W. Bond has been the Project Coordinator of the Center for International Security and Strategic Studies since August 1987. Mr. Bond joined the Center after retiring from the U.S. Air Force as a Colonel with 29 years active duty service.

Mr. Bond, a native Mississippian, received his B.S. Degree from the United States Military Academy in 1958, and his Masters Degree in Public Administration from Auburn University in 1975. He is a graduate of the U.S. Air Force's Air War College.

Mr. Bond's Air Force career includes numerous operational assignments as a pilot and command of several flying units as well as joint duties and staff assignments. He served with the Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Headquarters, U.S. Air Force, with staff responsibilities in strategic and defense planning and execution. He flew rescue helicopters in Vietnam in 1969-70 and commanded a heavy bombardment wing in the Strategic Air Command from 1980-1982. His last duty assignment with the Air Force was as Professor of Aerospace Studies and Department Head at Mississippi State University.

Mr. Bond served as a senior fellow with the Center for four years prior to assuming his present position. He is a member of the International Institute of Strategic Studies, he teaches national security related courses at the undergraduate level and is actively engaged in the planning and conducting of workshops and conferences on global security matters.

He is a member of the Air Force Association and served for two years as the Mississippi Air Force Association's Vice President for Aerospace Education.

Donald W. Zacharias
President
Mississippi State University

Dr. Donald W. Zacharias became the 15th president of Mississippi State University on September 1, 1985. Since then he has overseen a restructuring of the university's administration with the appointment of four new vice presidents, including the institution's first provost. He also has implemented procedures to bring increased involvement by the faculty, students and alumni to the decision-making processes of the university, and has become one of Mississippi's leading spokesmen for higher education.

Dr. Zacharias received the Ph.D. in communication from Indiana University in 1963, and continues to produce scholarly articles in his academic field. A recently completed article on the principles of designing an ideal university communication system is the latest entry in a lengthy record of publications. He continued to teach while serving as president at Western Kentucky, and taught a course in communication and group leadership in the Communication Department at Mississippi State last year.

He currently serves on two major committees of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges--the Commission on Arts and Sciences and the Subcommittee on Federal Student Financial Assistance.

Dr. Zacharias came to Mississippi State from Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, where he had served as president for six years, from 1979 to 1985. At Western Kentucky, he raised academic standards, led the development of a strategic plan, established the first comprehensive development program, and reorganized the academic structure of the university.

Earlier, he was for five years an administrator in the University of Texas system, serving as executive assistant to the chancellor of the 14-campus statewide system and as assistant to the president at the Austin campus.

He was associate professor and professor of communication at the University of Texas at Austin from 1972 to 1979, and a faculty member at Indiana University before that. He won teaching awards at both universities.

Dr. Zacharias received the B.A. degree from Georgetown College, and was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Law by that Institution in 1983.

He is active in church and civic affairs and spends as much time as possible with his wife, Tommie, and their three children. Alan is in medical school, Eric is a student at Mississippi State, and daughter Leslie is in high school.

Brad Dye
Lieutenant Governor

Jackson

BIOGRAPHY OF BRAD DYE

Brad Dye was born in Charleston, Mississippi. Graduating from Charleston High School where he was an Eagle Scout, he went on to The University of Mississippi to obtain his Bachelor of Business Administration degree in January, 1957. Two years later, he was awarded his law degree from the University's School of Law. While at Ole Miss, Dye served as President of the student body, was a member of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity, and was named to the Hall of Fame.

In 1950, Dye served as a Page in the U.S. House of Representatives for Rep. Jamie Whitten. After graduation from law school, he practiced law with his father in Grenada until 1961.

In 1959, he was elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives where he served as Vice Chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Senator James O. Eastland appointed Dye as an attorney for the staff of the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee in Washington, D.C. from 1961 to 1964.

In 1963, he was elected to the Mississippi State Senate and in 1965 resigned to accept an appointment by Governor Paul Johnson as a Commissioner of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

In 1968, he was named Executive Director of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board by Governor John Bell Williams. In 1971, he resigned that post to enter the race for State Treasurer, which he won. He served in that position until 1976. He then served as President of Jackson Savings and Loan Association from January 1976 to March 1979.

In January 1980, Dye was sworn in as the 35th Lieutenant Governor of Mississippi. In 1983, he won re-election, and in 1987 he was re-elected to a third term which he is now serving.

Dye is married to the former Donna Bess Bailey of Coffeetown. They have three sons and are members of Galloway United Methodist Church where Dye has served on the Administrative Board. He is a Mason and Shriner, and has worked for the Heart Fund, Cancer Drive, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, United Way, and as a YMCA Coach of youth sports. He was Charter Vice President of the Grenada Jaycees and Charter President of the University of Mississippi Business Alumni Association. In 1986, he was awarded the James O. Eastland Public Service Award by the Mississippi Democratic Party. He was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention in 1980 and led the delegation in 1984.

SPEAKER TIM FORD

House Speaker Timothy Alan (Tim) Ford, 36, of Tupelo, is starting his third straight term in the House of Representatives. He was first elected in 1979 and reelected in 1983 and 1987. He represents House District 18, Lee and Prentiss counties. The Speaker is a fifth generation Mississippian and lifelong resident of Lee County. He was born October 22, 1951, in Winter Haven, Florida, while his father, Dr. John Mitchell Ford Sr., was serving as a flight surgeon at Bartow AFB but the family returned to Mississippi when Tim was about six months old. Tim grew up in Baldwyn and was starting quarterback in 1968 for the Baldwyn High School football team, guiding his team to an 8-2 record his senior year.

Speaker Ford is a 1973 graduate of the University of Mississippi with a major in biology and minor in English and chemistry. He enrolled in Law School at Ole Miss in 1974 and graduated in 1977. He was president of the Law School student body. Following law school, he worked as a law clerk in 1977-78 for Presiding Justice L.A. Smith Jr. of the State Supreme Court, and was an assistant District Attorney from 1978 to 1980 in the 1st judicial district. Currently, he is a partner in the law firm of Carnathan, Malaski and Ford. He is married to the former Mary Foose and they have two children, Ken and Sam.

In 1984-1988, Representative Ford served as chairman of the House Apportionment and Elections Committee and guided the 1986 election law reform package to passage in the House. He also was author of the 1984 legislation eliminating the old "dual registration" voting law. Other committee assignments included Banks and Banking; Insurance; Judiciary B; and Ways and Means. As a member of the Finance Subcommittee of Ways and Means, he handled most bills involving revenue bonds. He has been a strong supporter of education at all levels, economic development, agriculture, and open meetings legislation. He supported the House rule changes adopted at the start of the 1987 session.
